REPORT OF TRAINING SCHOOL FOR 1913.

It is generally conceded that the best way to determine the efficiency of any institution or school is to observe how well it measures up to the demands made upon it by the public. In this day of rapid evolution any school must be very plastic in order to adapt itself to modern requirements. It is well that once a year at least we are expected to take observation of and to report our condition to the public. As an old school, we may naturally be expected to demonstrate stability and substantial achievement; whether we are conforming to modern ideals is for you to judge. In this report it is my intention to show what the public is asking of the school; how we are preparing our pupils to meet the demand and to indicate how far we are succeeding. Extracts from some of the letters received will tell what is expected of us from the employing public. One medical superintendent writes as follows: "Can you recommend one of your graduates as Principal of our Training School? We want one capable of taking the initiative, one who has tact and a pleasing personality, and other things being equal, a nurse with a college degree will be preferred." One lady asks: "Have you a graduate whom you can recommend as a supervisor in one of our city districts? She must be able to organize, direct and to teach other people. She must have the personality and the general education that will enable her to meet the public in a way to command respect for her opinions." Still another writes: "Have you a graduate with sufficient social experience plus her nurse training to go into a large manufactory to look after the hygienic conditions under which the employees work and to do social work for those who need it?" At least three times this past year I have been asked to recommend nurses who were also college women for positions of importance. A medical superintendent from California who was visiting several hospitals looking for a superintendent for a school connected with a university hospital said he wanted one who had had the course in the Nursing and Health Department at Teachers College. He added that he used to think that Professor Nutting was aiming too high educationally, but he had changed his mind since. These people often say that the usual salary of $900, $1000 or $1200 a year with maintenance will be increased to whatever sum is necessary to secure the right person.

Three of our graduates are now students in Teachers College and another is registered for the summer course.

A school must concern itself as much with the selection of its candidates as with the education it gives to its pupils. Good personal qualifications, education and home training are absolutely essential. One has only to read of Florence Nightingale's attainments to realize how desirable it is to bring to our work cultivated minds as well as hearts. Few realize that "sanitary or health nursing" was the ideal for which "The Lady of the Lamp" was always striving and that modern nursing education was in her estimation simply a means to that greater end. The old idea of military nurse training—not Florence Nightingale's—was to turn out a piece of mechanism that would carry out orders from a superior officer with unquestioning obedience. A quotation posted over my desk by one of my former pupils expressed the situation admirably:

"Ours not to question why;
Ours but to do or die."

In this latter day of preventive medicine we are amazed, aggrieved and indignant at being criticised as unsuitable for the greater work because of this hardly earned and heroically endured system of training; yet we know that we must change our methods if we are to bear our part in it. The old system must yield to the new way, which is to teach underlying principles that will enable a well trained mind to adapt its knowledge to specific situations and, when obedience is the duty, to give it intelligently rather than automatically.

We are seeing a fusion of the medical care of the sick with the kind of care called "social service," which runs before to educate and prevent, and after, to establish and to perfect the cure. Nurses are soon going to cease being the mechanical contrivance that simply carry out orders without feeling any deeper responsibility toward their patients. They are beginning consciously to study their patients as individuals and to consider them in relation to their heredity and environment and to study carefully all the ways in which they may be permanently helpful to them. In brief, they are beginning to think of themselves as health nurses.

As we are requiring more thorough educational preparation before entering the nursing school we are enriching the curriculum of the three years' course and making the third year more definitely a preparation for some of the specialties. We have offered this past year some very attractive courses. The three months in the social service department has been much appreciated and the opportunity of giving the head nurse in the Children's Out-Patient Department afternoon experience with the social worker for three months is augmenting greatly the value of such nurses as wish to specialize in work with children.

The Instructive District Nursing Association has agreed to give some of our senior pupils who are especially interested in Public Health Work the attractive course planned for that work, either in part with credit, or entirely. This course consists of two months on the model district under expert supervision; experience at the Milk and Baby Hygiene Station; one month with the Associated Charities and one month of pre-natal work. There are classes and lectures with required reading. Those who complete this course satisfactorily are given the Public Health Certificate when they have received our diploma. It is hoped to correlate the work in the District with that given in the Social Service Department so as to make it a valuable equivalent for a definite part of a recognized training for social work. The school is greatly indebted to Miss Cannon, Miss Beard and Miss Carr for the interest they have taken in working out this scheme.

Nearly all pupils have an opportunity to do executive work for three or four months as undergraduates and recently a senior has been assigned to the special research patients. This training will qualify nurses to assist doctors who are doing scientific investigation inside or outside of hospitals. The work is very important and may be extremely interesting when done for doctors who have the teaching habit.

The long-neglected and much misunderstood branch of nursing, that of mental and nervous patients, is now a problem pressing upon the public for immediate solution and it is gratifying to recognize among the laity an aroused interest. With the coöperation of doctors, nurses and social workers the problem will probably be satisfactorily solved. Let each layman ask himself, How do I want to be nursed and cared for, if I should become "poor and insane" or "rich and insane" and under what conditions should I be willing that my sister or daughter study nursing? and we may hope for better things. Our school is showing some interest in this problem of nursing the insane and ten of our three-year pupils have had or are having by request a three months' course at McLean Hospital. They spend six weeks in the wards for disturbed patients and six weeks with the other type of patients. I hope in the near future all the pupils will ask for this experience. Nineteen who are graduating have spent two and one-half years at McLean and undoubtedly some of these nurses will eventually go back to that branch of work. This work is, in some of its aspects, harder and sadder than any other, but it is also in some ways fascinating and has great compensations. It is, I think the only line of work where all one's mental resources may find a chance for development. In ordinary nursing it is comparatively seldom that a nurse's social accomplishments in the way of music, languages, etc., are put to practical uses but with mental nursing every conceivable talent may be used in an effective way.

The fact that nineteen of our graduates are superintendents of Massachusetts hospitals and sixty-five others are engaged in hospital departments in Massachusetts alone and that twenty-seven of last year's graduates are doing some kind of executive, teaching or public health work against thirteen who are doing private work shows that they are meeting some of the demands made upon the school.

If, perchance, any person thinks we are neglecting "handicraft nursing" to quote Miss Nightingale, he or she is invited to visit Miss McCrae's class room almost any hour of the day and see what is going on there. Never previously has it been possible to teach so thoroughly as now.

During the past year we have received 1026 requests for circulars of the school. Besides many personal applications which had to be rejected we have had one hundred and eighty-five since the non-payment system was started a little over a year ago. A larger percentage of the applications under this system have been acceptable and there has been a more earnest and persistent attitude on the part of probationers toward the work. Including our twenty-six graduates and twenty-six probationers we have at the present time two hundred and twenty-five people in the school.

Several nationalities, colleges, normal and private schools are represented. Short courses have been offered to twenty-three pupils from other schools; five have completed post-graduate courses.

We have had no very serious illness among the pupils during the past year. For the benefit of those who think the training too severe for ordinary individuals I wish to state that more than one young woman (from homes where they have been accustomed to every comfort) have been recommended to the school for a "cure." We are pleased to affirm that any person of average physical strength, having no organic lesion, may, if reasonably careful of herself when off duty, be confident of successfully finishing the three years' course in as good or better health than when she enters. We are now asking more for intellectual strength, than for unusual physical endurance.

Miss Sadie Miller, Miss Elizabeth Sullivan and Miss Agnes Trull of the 1913 class graduated with honor, having maintained an average in both practical and theoretical work of 90% or more.

This past year has given us much to be thankful for: A better curriculum; scholarships given by Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. Charles E. Mason and the Training School Alumnae for pupils who need financial assistance; and for the New Home. When one stops to think what a home means to young women who come long distances to train and who must depend upon the hospital home for rest and relaxation, and for a proper place in which to entertain their friends in "off duty" time; one realizes how right and wise and necessary it is to provide comfortable and attractive living accommodations for the thirty-four and one-half months that the pupils are in the school. Fifty-eight of our nurses come from outside New England, and fifty from outside Massachusetts, two-thirds, too far away to go home except for vacation. We are very grateful to all of the many friends who have made our home and furnishings possible, and to our superintendent who has planned the special comforts of its arrangement. The nurses themselves have fittingly shown their appreciation by contributing to the furnishings. The graduates have presented a hall clock for the entrance, and one pupil gave money to furnish one of the corridor sitting rooms. The kitchenette furnishings and two of the pictures in the basement recreation room were given to the home by graduates, they have also given crayon drawings of Miss Linda Richards and Miss Anna C. Maxwell, two of our early superintendents. The graduating class has presented a handsome mantel clock to the new home. One of the staff has given the home an interesting engraving of Florence Nightingale, framed with her autograph and a brief autobiographical sketch.

Probably the most practical and complimentary service that the alumnae renders the school is by sending their sisters, nieces and friends here to get their professional education. One of the early graduates is sending her daughter from California to study at her Alma Mater.

During the past year there have been several important changes in the training school staff. Miss Jean McPherson, who has done efficient work as head nurse and supervisor since her graduation resigned in November to get married. Miss Harriet Phalen accepted a position as assistant superintendent of nurses at the New City Hospital of Wheeling, W. Va. Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, head nurse of Ward H, had to give up her work temporarily on account of illness. Miss Brookins left to accept a larger and more remunerative position. Miss Harriet O. Coombs who has for about five years been a most valuable member of the staff as head nurse of Ward G left in May to go as Matron to St. Luke's Convalescent Home, Roxbury. Miss Grace Perkins, who was the first anesthetist in this hospital and who has been with us since March, 1909, left in December to go into private practice in the same line of work. Miss Mina McKay, head nurse of the surgical building, resigned to accept another position. Miss Bertha Blackwell resigned hospital work in favor of matrimony early in the year.

The best thing we can wish our graduates as they leave us, is that, in their new environments they may continue to grow in usefulness, and to increase in happiness. They have the best wishes of many friends.

The school is greatly indebted to a large number of specialists who have lectured to our seniors; and to the members of our Ladies' Advisory Committee who have continued to work for the interest of the school in every possible way.

A class in folk and social dancing has been organized through the interest aroused by Mrs. J. J. Storrow who came to the new home with some of her teachers and demonstrated several of the dances. Mrs. Storrow came at the request of Mrs. Alexander Whiteside.

This opportunity is taken to invite all the graduates who have not already done so, to join the Alumnae Association, also to contribute items of interest to the Quarterly Record.

I will remind the graduates that the Sick Relief Fund is not nearly as large as it ought to be and that presents or bequests to it are in order all the time.

May I suggest in closing my report, ways in which those who believe in the work of the school may help it? Scholarships for merit and for advanced work would help very much. We need scholarships for merit to attract women of unusual ability who would otherwise select some school where there was a chance to earn them. For those who have no relatives or friends to stand for personal expenses, nor private income, or those who are constitutionally averse to borrowing, the three years' training is out of the question, unless there are scholarships available.

Scholarships for advanced work would do the most good given a year or more after graduation when the nurse has "found herself," so to speak, and could bring a graduate's point of view to her work.

There are graduates who would be fitted admirably for some of the big opportunities for service if they had a chance to study a year at Teachers College or to take the Administration Course which is offered by this hospital or who could study hospital and training school methods elsewhere. To do any of these things, even in an economical way, means, aside from the loss of salary while studying, an expense ranging from $150 to $500, or more. These women who are almost ready for big responsibilities are usually those who have had exceptional educational advantages before they entered the training school or who have had unusually good experience and are gifted with natural qualifications of a high order.

Sara E. Parsons,
Superintendent of Nurses.
